Section 1 – Details of Initiative

1.2 Details of host organisation and aim of study visit

Name of organisation	Terram Pacis, Oslo
Mission	Established in 2010, Terram Pacis is a human rights, non-profit organisation that, through education and training, aims to empower youth to acquire the skills and behaviours needed to apply, uphold, and protect human rights. Terram Pacis believes in the transformative power of non-formal education. The mission of the organisation is to provide youth and youth organisations with learning opportunities and digital, free, open educational resources. The organisation takes a rights-based approach in its youth work that is reflected in its youth education programme which covers the planning, design and delivery of effective youth intervention from a human rights-based, participatory, and gender-sensitive approach. The programme highlights the important role youths play in achieving sustainable results when designing a youth intervention that is rights-based, meaning that the youth, their human rights, their unmet needs, and their unfilled gaps are at the centre of the lifecycle of the intervention.
